

Field Mycology

Vol. 25(4) November 2024

CONTENTS

Editorial	110
Fungal Portrait No. 100: Russula blumiana – Geoffrey Kibby	111
Dissingia confusa new to Britain – Charles Aron	113
Leucopaxillus tricolor on offer at your local supermarket – Graham Mattock	116
Cortinarius geraniolens and related species smelling of Pelargonium leaves – Andy Overall & Geoffrey Kibby	117
An important photograph of early mycologists - Editor's note	123
New Publication: The genus Russula in Europe - 40 years of research – Werner Jurkeit	124
Pluteus umbrosus var. albus , the white form of Velvet Shield - Jeremy Bartlett	125
Amanita opaca and A. coryli , two closely related species present in the UK – Andy Overall & Geoffrey Kibby	127
Updates to our book: The genus Cortinarius in Britain - Mario Tortelli	131
The Kew Fungarium - Lee Davies	137
Readers' Finds	139
Notes and Records - Alick Henrici	141
New Books
The Little Book of Fungi - Britt A. Bunyard	144
Flora Agaricina Neerlandica Vol. 8. Cortinarius Kuyper, T., de Haan, A. et al. inside back cover

Front cover: Hygrocybe punicea, our largest species of red waxcap, Piercefield Park, Chepstow, November 3 2024. Photograph © Geoffrey Kibby.

Back cover: Leucopaxillus tricolor, under Fagus on the North Downs, Surrey, Sept. 2024. Photo @ Claudi V. Soler.